Everybody knows Longfellow's poem for which the above is the most celebrated line. Everybody knows, too, that Longfellow the thought was not of Napoleon I, Napoleon II, when writing on subjects of the poor laws to his Minister of the Interior, said—"It is melancholy to see time passing away without being put to full value. Surely in a matter of kind we should endeavor to do something that we may say that we have lived, we have not lived in vain, that we leave some impress of ourselves on sands of time."
